Why We're Here

LGBTQIA+ students experience minority stress which is additional stress caused by a multitude of environmental factors. (i.e social stigma, lack of support, rejection, and systemic oppression)

Therefore, we are here to help queer students through any challenges they may face on campus while also creating a space that is safe and welcoming.

Real examples of things our queer students had to deal with last semester:

Professor used the F slur multiple times in class to refer to the LGBTQ+ community

Queer students tried to walk around campus with their partners and/or with pride buttons on and were harassed and called slurs

A random student came over to say queer people are "a disease that needs eradicating" during one of our first events
